DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is unclear what the function of the protective bed is. And it is unclear what the protective bed is -- the pipe, the fixed bed of the reactor or something else.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 1764

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vicari et al (5,49,972) in view of Sanderson et al (5,243,118).

Vicari discloses a process oligomerization of C6 olefins in the presence of a catalyst substantial the same the applicants' claimed catalyst (see the abstract).

Vicari does not disclose that (1) the conversion is selected at not more than 30% by weight (see the whole specification for details) (2) the reaction is carried out adiabatically in a shaft oven, (3) the reaction is essentially a dimerization (4) the separation of desired product and recycling the unreacted reactants and (5) a pretreatment of the reactant before the reaction. However, it is well-known in the art of oligomerization as disclosed by Sanderson that conversion is a parameter which should be selected to optimize the selectivity of the desired oligomers (col. 3, lines 33-55).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the Vicari process by selecting an appropriate conversion such as not more than 30% conversion according to the desired oligomer.

Art Unit: 1764

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the Vicari process by carry out the reaction in an adiabatic shaft oven since (1) the condition of a reaction must be selected to optimize the reaction. In re Aller 105 USPQ 233, 255 (CCPA 1955) and it has been held that apparatus limitations are given no patentable weight in method claims. Stalego v. Heymes et al, 120 USPQ 473; 263 F2d 334.

It would have been to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the Vicari process by recovering the desired product and recycling unreacted reactants to obtain a pure product and reducing the cost of raw material.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the Vicari process by pretreating the reactants before the reaction to remove any unwanted material into the reaction.
